2007 AMM Salary Survey

The Association of Midwest Museums (AMM) is pleased to announce that the publication of the 2007 AMM Salary Survey will be available in September. The 2007 Salary Survey will be the first of five successive annual surveys that AMM will conduct. The new AMM survey report will provide updated salary data for museum professionals in the midwest. The survey includes 55 job titles, including CEO, Deputy Director Operations, and Chief Financial Officer. These successive surveys, conducted by the Employers Association of Illinois, will benchmark market changes in particular types of positions that are in demand, and provide timely data on an annual basis.

This is the first museum salary survey that has been conducted in the Midwest in five years. AMM conducted its first salary survey in 2002, which provided a benchmark for salaries for more than 50 job categories in the museum field. The 2002 survey was extremely successful with 192 institutions, representing more than 2,900 employees, participating in the survey. Museums, cultural institutions, and search firms used the data to remain competitive in the field.

AMM is offering this survey to members at the discounted rate of $25 ($50 for non-members). To order your 2007 AMM Salary Survey Report, complete and return the order form below. If you have any questions, contact Brian Bray, Executive Director, at 314-746-4557 or at bbray@midwestmuseums.org.
